Housing plus support ...

HousingPlus organizations provide services and housing for people who face social isolation and other complex challenges in Ottawa – individuals and families who may have very low incomes and serious, persistent issues that may include mental illness, HIV/AIDS or substance use. There are approximately 800 tenants living in HousingPlus units in Ottawa today. Experts estimate that at least another 2000 units are needed.

Housing plus community ...

HousingPlus reduces reliance on costly emergency, health and social services and, more importantly, helps people to be strong and successful members of the community. Since they now have housing and on-site support, tenants build relationships and a sense of community within their buildings and are encouraged to contribute to the health and safety of their neighbourhoods.

Housing plus you ...

HousingPlus services are provided by the members of the Ottawa Supportive Housing Network, a coalition of ten housing agencies. This partnership has created a single access point for individuals in need of supportive accommodation and support, a shared application form, informational brochure and website. These non-profit organizations rely on the support and contributions from all sectors and from people in the community ... people like you.

The Ottawa Supportive Housing Network is made up of:

Ancoura - Bruce House - Cornerstone - Daybreak - Emily Murphy - Harmony House - Options Bytown
